

Analecta Praehistorica Leidensia 45

EXCERPTA ARCHAEOLOGICA LEIDENSIA

Corrie Bakels & Hans Kamermans (eds) (2015)

This volume is a collection of papers written by staff members of the Faculty of Archaeology and presents a good overview in time and space of the kind of research the Institute in Leiden is doing. The time periods vary from the Palaeolithic to the present day, and geographically the studies are spread from South Africa to Europe .

Contents

The stable isotopes ^{13}C and ^{15}N in faunal bone of the Middle Pleistocene site
Schöningen (Germany): statistical modeling

By: Juliette Funck, Thijs van Kolfschoten, Hans van der Plicht

'Trapping the past'? Hunting for remote capture techniques and planned coastal exploitation during MIS 5 at Blombos Cave and Klasies River, South Africa

By: Gerrit L. Dusseldorp, Geeske H.J. Langejans

A Late Neolithic Single Grave Culture burial from Twello (central Netherlands):
environmental setting, burial ritual and contextualisation

By: Lucas Meurkens, Roy van Beek, Marieke Doorenbosch, Harry Fokkens, Eckhart Heunks, Cynthianne Debono Spiteri, Sebastiaan Knippenberg, Els Meirsman, Erica van Hees, Annemieke
Verbaas

The Agro Pontino region, refuge after the Early Bronze Age Avellino eruption of Mount Vesuvius, Italy?

By: Corrie Bakels, Jan Sevink, Wim Kuijper, Hans Kamermans

'Set in Stone'? Technical, socio-economic and symbolic considerations in the construction of the Cyclopean-style walls of the Late Bronze Age Citadel at Tiryns, Greece

By: Ann Brysbaert

'Set in stone'? Constructed symbolism viewed through an architectural energetics' lens
at Bronze Age Tiryns, Greece

By: Ann Brysbaert

Ostia's visual connection to Rome

By: L. Bouke van der Meer

One day on the streets of Camelon: discarded shoes from a Roman fort Mareille Arkesteijn, Carol van Driel-Murray

Clearance for a medieval curtilage, Black Death and buckwheat (Fagopyrum esculentum Moench): vegetation history of the area around the confluence of the rivers Swalm and Meuse, the Netherlands, AD 800-1900

By: Corrie Bakels, Marijke Langeveld, Iris van Tulder

Malaise and mosquitos: osteoarchaeological evidence for malaria in the medieval Netherlands

By: Rachel Schats

Shipwrecks in Dutch Waters with Botanical Cargo or Victuals

By: Martijn Manders, Wim Kuijper

'A day in the Life' – Cannerberg (the Netherlands), August 2nd 5045 calBC

By: Luc Amkreutz, Ivo van Wijk

Uncovering Roman fort Matilo in Leiden, 70-250 AD

By: Jasper de Bruin

A pearl necklace: the Lower German Limes World Heritage nomination

Willem Willems (+), Erik Graafstal, Tamar Leene

HERCULES: studying long-term changes in Europe's landscapes

By: Jan Kolen, Carole Crumley, Gert Jan Burgers, Kim von Hackwitz, Peter Howard, Krista Karro, Maurice de Kleijn, Daniel Löwenborg, Niels van Manen, Hannes Palang, Tobias Plieninger, Anu Printsman, Hans Renes, Henk Scholten, Paul Sinclair, Martti Veldi, Philip Verhagen

Exploring archaeology's social values for present day society

By: Monique van den Dries, Krijn Boom, Sjoerd van der Linde

Analecta Praehistorica Leidensia

[ISSN 0169-7447], 45,

Leiden: P.J.R. Modderman Stichting

Leiden University.

ISBN 978-90-822251-2-9

234 pages.

Price: € 34,95.

This volume can be ordered at: Sidestone Press