

WORKSHOP How to teach Islam online

Leontine van Melle and Monique Snijder, Centre for Innovation, Leiden University

All participants are invited to join the interactive workshop HOW TO TEACH ISLAM ONLINE. Two educators from the Centre for Innovation of Leiden University will guide us through the challenging field of online teaching.

Online education is pre-eminently an innovative field. We will explore a variety of possibilities online education has to offer, with a special view on challenges that come with teaching (about) Islam. How to deal with normativity and subjectivity? How to deal with strong emotions or feeling of distrust related to Islamophobia or Orientalism? What didactics could work when there is no face-to-face contact between teacher and student?

The participants will practice designing an online course.