What kind of preparation works?

- A master’s degree pays off: In their first job master’s students often occupy higher-level positions than bachelor’s students.

- Graduates with internship experience are more likely to have obtained the job they wanted: 56% compared to graduates who did not have this experience: 48%.

- Relevant (part-time) work experience also has a positive effect on obtaining the job you aspire to have: 56% of graduates with work experience compared to 46% of graduates without work experience obtained their desired job.
