Leiden University College & Leiden University

Leiden University College The Hague (LUC) is the international Honours College of Leiden University, offering an innovative and innovative Liberal Arts & Sciences programme to highly talented and motivated students from all over the world. LUC offers a BA and a BSc in Liberal Arts and Sciences that focus on today's Global Challenges: Peace and Justice, Sustainability, Prosperity and Diversity. The programme offers six different majors: BA in International Justice, BA in World Politics, BA in Human Diversity, BSc in Global Public Health, BSc in Government, Economics, and Development, and a BSc in Energy, Environment and Sustainability.

LUC welcomes incoming exchange students from partner institutions. There are two types of exchange partners: direct exchange partners of LUC and Leiden University-wide exchange partners. If you are coming from a direct LUC exchange partner, your home university has nominated you officially for a semester abroad at LUC, and you meet our minimum entry requirements, your place is secured. Students from Leiden University-wide exchange partners will have to meet certain admissions requirements, and placement is based on their academic merit and places available. Note that if you are not granted admission to LUC for an exchange semester, you might still be eligible to study at other Faculties and Departments of Leiden University. If you are not sure whether your home university is a partner university of either LUC or Leiden University, please contact LUC's Exchange Office at studyabroad@luc.leidenuniv.nl.
