

Universiteit
Leiden

Interaction between Legal Systems 2.0: Reflections at the halfway point

ILS 2.0 PhD presentations, 21 February 2019

10:00 – 12.30: Faculteitskamer Rechten, Academiegebouw (Rapenburg 73, 2311 GJ Leiden)

Programme

10.15 – 10.25      Arrival, tea and coffee

---

10.25 – 10.30      Official start and welcome

---

10.30 – 11.30      Session 1: 'Policing the high seas: maritime law-enforcement in a multi-actor environment'

10.30              Merinda Stewart

10.50              Thea Coventry

11.10              Kristof Gombeer

---

11.30 – 11.50      Break

---

11.50 – 12.30      Session 2: SOLID: Solidarity under strain - A legal, criminological and economic analysis of welfare states and free movement in the EU

11.50              Daniel Carter

12.10              Clare Fenwick

---

12.30              Close of morning session

About

Interaction between Legal Systems (ILS) is a multidisciplinary research profile area that intends to contribute to the development of national, European and international policy through an interdisciplinary approach combining fields such as law, philosophy, psychology, economics and criminology. The projects within ILS aim to stimulate collaboration between researchers from various institutes and departments, and at the same time inspire collaboration with researchers from our international academic networks.

'Interaction between Legal Systems 2.0: Reflections at the halfway point' is organised by 'SOLID: Solidarity Under Strain' and 'Policing the high seas: maritime law enforcement', two projects within ILS 2.0. The aim is to present the current research of the projects in order to share our research in an open and accessible way for researchers from other projects and research programs and institutes to understand what ILS 2.0 is working on. Moreover, it will enable us to reflect and examine where we all are at the halfway point in the projects.