Discover the world at Leiden University

Master of Science
Cultural Anthropology and Development Sociology
Today’s programme outline:

10.15 – 12.00:

- 1. General introduction to the 3 specialisations (dr. Erik de Maaker)
- 2. Global Ethnography (dr. Erik de Maaker)
- 4. Visual Ethnography (dr. Mark Westmoreland)
- 5. Former Students on Experiences, Qualifications and Skills

12.00 – 13.00:

Meet and Greet including lunch
Cultural Anthropology and Development Sociology at Leiden University

Why choose for the MSc CA/DS at Leiden?

• Staff with a strong international track record.
• Expertise in: Economy, Environment, Heritage,
• Religion, Politics, Gender, Ethnicity, Politics, Media.
• Extensive research networks in Europe, Africa, Asia and the America’s

We offer:

• Student centered education
• International experience
• International classrooms – tuition in English
Master Cultural Anthropology/Development Sociology

- Research cultural differences and inequalities in relation to development, inequality, injustice and culture as these involve ‘real people’.

- Develop the skills to acquire relevant thematic and regional knowledge.

- Learn how to ‘do’ ethnography (theory, method, fieldwork, analysis).

- Communicate research outcomes in writing (and in audiovisual / multimedia formats).

- Individual guidance.
Career Opportunities

- Research (commercial or academic)
- International cooperation (NGO / Governmental)
- National and local governments
- Commercial, relating to culture and diversity
- Museums
- Secondary education (subject: Civics – “Maatschappijleer”)
- Media and communication

- Annual CA/DS Career day
Do I qualify?

1. Academic Requirements

- A bachelor in Cultural Anthropology and Development Sociology; or a bachelor degree with a major in Cultural Anthropology and Development Sociology, or an equivalent from a recognised university. (Students with a vocational bachelor diploma like the Dutch HBO, can not be admitted to this master’s programme).

- Basic training in the anthropological research process and methodology (research proposal, fieldwork and data analysis).

2. Language Requirements

Proof of proficiency in English: IELTS 7.0 or TOEFL 600/250 (100 for the internet-based TOEFL), evidenced by an appropriate test.

This requirement does not apply if you have:

- Completed your education in Canada, USA, UK, Ireland, New Zealand or Australia, or
- An International Baccalaureate, or
- Dutch VWO diploma.
Pre-master programme

In order to be admitted to our pre-master programme, some basic knowledge of Anthropology is required!

• Application for pre-master only via formal MSc application

• Our admissions committee decides on the content of the pre-master programme based on the applicant’s bachelor curriculum.

• 10 – 60 ECTS consisting of parts of BA programme CA-DS in Leiden OR online course + premaster essay(s) from the home country.
Deadlines!

- September
  - 1 February: most scholarships
  - 1 April: Non-EU citizens, EU citizens requiring housing
  - 1 June: if no visa or housing required

- February
  - 1 September: most scholarships
  - 15 October: Non-EU citizens, EU citizens requiring housing
  - 1 November: if no visa or housing required
Welcome to Leiden University

Connect with us

- Main Website: www.universiteitleiden.nl
- CA/DS: www.universiteitleiden.nl → Education → Study Programmes → Cultural Anthropology
- Application Information: info@leidenuniv.nl
- Specific CA/DS information: m.kallenberg@fsw.leidenuniv.nl
- On-campus Experiences: Open Days
Regional foci of the Institute CA/DS

- Asia (Indonesia, Malaysia, India)
- Africa (South of the Sahara)

Field Research & Training (September intake only):
- Ghana
- The Philippines
- The Netherlands

Individual research projects
- Globally
Examples of MA research projects in the Philippines

“Miss Gay” beauty pageants, by Anna van Delft

Impacts of roads construction, Elodie Deprez

Discover the world at Leiden University
CA/DS staff conducts research across the globe
Master Cultural Anthropology/Development Sociology

Three specialisations:

1. Global Ethnography
2. Sociology of Policy in Practice
3. Visual Ethnography
Global Ethnography

• The Master’s specialization Global Ethnography provides you with the opportunity to develop and conduct an individualized research project, including three-months of ethnographic field research at a location of your choice.

• Free, but we will provide guidance.
Example: Horse games and ethnicity in Kirgizstan

How are horse games important in Kirgizstan? What is their political relevance?
Example: Land Grabbing in Cambodia

How are people in Cambodia attempting to resist the takeover of their land by multinationals? What strategies, what agency?
Example: Lesbian-Gay-Bi-Trans Refugees in the Netherlands

How are LGBT refugees from the Middle East connecting to the LGBT Community in the Netherlands? What does it mean for them to adapt, and how do they become familiar with expectations of citizenship?
Example: Gender on Campus in New Delhi

How do female students who live at a campus university redefine what they consider appropriate behavior for women and men? How are women changing attitudes, and rethinking their aspirations?
Our staff members offer students the opportunity to participate in research that they themselves are conducting.

- Construction of Difference (Igor Boog)
- Cultural framing of rights and subjectivities (Ratna Saptari)
- Custom as Capital in Upland South and Southeast Asia (Erik de Maaker)
- Economy and Technology (Zane Kripe)
- Everyday Life: Soap Operas, Survival Tactics and the Reproduction of Matrilineality (Janneke Verheijen)
- Diversity in human-nature relations (Annet Pauwelussen)
- Gender and Diversity in Urban Settings (Jasmijn Rana)
- Gold in Ghana (Sabine Luning and Jan Jansen)
- Mobility of People and Transmission of Knowledge in Northern Ghana (Sabine Luning & Mark Westmoreland)
- Museums, Heritage and Material Culture (Peter Pels)
- Revitalising the Musical Arts of Indonesia's Lampung Province (Bart Barendregt)
- Slavery and Samo – The Heritage of Nineteenth-Century Northern Ghana (Jan Jansen)
- Southeast Asia = Digital Diversity (Bart Barendregt)
- How do I age? (Metje Postma)
- Visual Ethnography (Mark Westmoreland)
Why Global Ethnography at Leiden University??

• Make use of the opportunity to translate your own concerns and fascinations into (do-able) social science research;
• Develop your own networks, or make use of the GE Research Opportunities offered by the Leiden staff.
• Conduct your research through one of the fieldschools, or at a fieldwork location of your own choice.
• Acquire valuable skills the engage with theory, learn research methods, and become an academic writer;
Sociology of Policy in Practice

- The Master’s specialisation in Sociology of Policy in Practice teaches you to think along with organisations to help them respond to the challenges they are facing in our global and quickly changing societies.

- Great! How...?
PiP research projects
2017

Policy-oriented research internships in the Netherlands
(Please note: Most of the policy-oriented research internships in the Netherlands are in Dutch)

- CultuurSchakel, Den Haag (Bart Barendregt)
- Gemeente Goeree-Overflakkee (Jan Jansen)
- Gemeente Heerenveen (Peter Pels)
- Gemeente Leiden (Janneke Verheijen)
- Inclusiveness and Diversity at FSW, Leiden University (Igor Boog)
- Inclusiveness and Diversity at LIACS, Leiden University (Peter Pels)
- National Museum of World Cultures (NMVW) (Peter Pels)
- Oogfonds (Jan Jansen)
- Stichting Landelijk Ongedocumenteerden Steunpunt (Ratna Saptari)

- Tape-a-house (Peter Pels)
  Keywords: Disaster studies, anthropology of architecture, emergency housing

Policy-oriented research internships in Ghana

- Closing the Loop (Jan Jansen)
- Gender and Water Alliance (GWA) (Sabine Luning)
- Witteveen + Bos (Sabine Luning and Mark Westmoreland)
Example: Leiden Municipality

What does an “inclusive society” look like, and how can it be facilitated?
Example: Leiden Municipality

What does an “inclusive society” look like, and how can it be facilitated??
Closing the Loop (NGO), Ghana

1) Environmental Awareness
You will do Closing the Loop’s mobile phone surgery workshop with Ghanaian audiences in order to investigate sociological parameters of environmental awareness and attitudes of consumption.

2) Mobile waste at the Kumasi Market
You will trace the route of mobile waste at the Kumasi market and investigate the people’s ideas about the mobile waste’s ultimate destinations.

3) Money from waste at Agbogbloshie
You will investigate how people make money from waste at the Agbogbloshie waste dump, in the context of the working arrangements between different workers.
Why Sociology of Policy in Practice at Leiden University??

• Know-how on how to ‘translate’ prevailing policy problems into manageable research questions;
• Skills to use a broad spectrum of social scientific methods (qualitative, quantitative, ethnographic);
• The opportunity to conduct your own three-month research project at an NGO, government agency, or commercial company;
• Relevant working experience and valuable network contacts.
VISUAL ETHNOGRAPHY

Master’s Open Day Introduction

M.R. Westmoreland
16 March 2017
THE LEIDEN SCHOOL OF VISUAL ETHNOGRAPHY

Matjemosh @ http://www.papuaerfgoed.org

Gerbrands @ http://fel-leiden.nl
The Visual Ethnography track is an intensive education in the application of visual ethnography that demands students’ rigorous efforts to master the skills and logic of the approach. This course emphasizes a strongly hands-on, heuristic approach, which requires students to play an active role in the mastering the audiovisual toolbox. The mastery of technical skills as well as the critical attunement of documentary aesthetics provide the basis for a practice-based ethnography, which understands ethnographic filmmaking, photo-ethnography, sonic ethnography, and their cognates as a process of production rather than merely passive documentation.

Rigorous engagement with these demonstrate your ability to:
(a) execute independent ethnographic research,
(b) analyze the findings produced through the research initiative, and
(c) communicate an argument empirically supported by the research
(d) able to offer multimodal research skills to a variety of employers.
Multimodal Anthropology provides a new conceptual framework based on changing media practices and media ecologies and has begun to transform the field of visual anthropology. These changes are linked to three main developments in emerging conditions of 21st century anthropological research, which include:

a) increased accessibility of media production by researchers and researched,

b) greater emphasis on collaboration between researchers and researched,

c) transformation of the professional responsibilities of researchers to researched populations.
Multimodal Anthropology?

In his blog series, visual anthropologist Mark Westmoreland sets out to explore the new vibrant mode of scholarship called multimodal anthropology, and what it means for (visual) anthropology. This is part one.

'A vibrant mode of scholarship'

Practice-based research has emerged as a vibrant mode of scholarship at the intersection of scientific methodologies and aesthetic experience. While bolstered by the emergence of numerous doctoral programs in artistic research (doing research through art rather than research on art) such as PhDArts, the valuation of research through non-textual means echoes concerns at the core of visual anthropology.

The Leiden School of Multimodal Ethnography?

In this blog, Mark Westmoreland provides some insights into how the Institute of Cultural Anthropology and Development Sociology at Leiden University engages with multimodal teaching & research. This is part 2 of a blog series on multimodal anthropologies.

In part 1 of this blog series on Multimodal Ethnography, I provide a gloss of some of the key issues transforming visual anthropology and other practice-based disciplines. With these critical points in mind, the team of visual anthropologists at Leiden University has been working to re-envision and redesign the visual ethnography program in ways we hope will inspire students and staff to experiment with cutting-edge multimodal approaches.
NIA SUMMER SCHOOL
Visual Ethnography Specialisation

- LISP
- Fieldwork
- Research Design
- VE FS
- Thesis Seminar
- Thesis Editing & Writing

Extension to October
- Reqs additional enrollment fee

October Student Festival

Dates
- Sept
- Oct
- Nov
- Dec
- Jan
- Feb
- Mar
- Apr
- May
- June

Key Events
- Oct 1: Topic supervision set
- Oct 17 - VE Film Fest
- Nov 30 - Proposal Lecture
- Dec 9 - Proposal 1st Draft
- Dec 15 - Proposal Final Draft
- Jan 1: Thesis Draft text
- June 8 - Thesis Rough Cut
- July 1 - Thesis Final Combo
VISUAL ETHNOGRAPHY
PILOT MODULES
Ethnographic Media Practices & Ecologies
Visual Ethnography (MSc)

Visual Ethnography provides an important framework, toolkit, and skillset to address the pressing concerns of Global Vulnerabilities and Social Resilience.