

Management Public Sector (MSc)

Master

Universiteit
Leiden

Discover the world at Leiden University

Our Dutch-taught Master of Public Sector Management equips you to tackle pressing societal challenges, like climate change and artificial intelligence. Prepare for a rewarding career as a public professional, understanding the crucial role of a proactive and reliable government in addressing these complex issues.

Why study Public Sector Management?

This master's programme provides a solid foundation in scientific knowledge and skills from public administration, offering insights into current issues and cases from the Dutch administrative practice. You will be trained to systematically identify and analyse problems, exploring various possible solutions. Equipped with these skills, you will be well-prepared to make a valuable contribution to addressing significant societal challenges.

Dutch-taught master's programme

Public Sector Management is a Dutch-taught master's programme. If you would like to know more about Public Sector Management, please visit the Dutch website of Management van de Publieke Sector.